Madda marks alif mamd?da, and intervocalic hamza written by y??; frequent hamza sign; postvocalic hamza marked by madda; alif maq??ra dotted below; alif al-wiq?ya? added in present tense verbs; suk?n on long vowels; tanw?n expressed by ?amma and fa?ha.

Muhmal signs on ??? (small ???), d?l dotted beneath, s?n (v-shaped and/or three dots beneath, fol. 42v, l.1), on r??u-shape, on ?ayn (small ?ayn), on h?? and T?? marb??a (small h??), The suk?n is a circle or a reversed c.

hamza is at times combined with madda e.g., al-?afr??, m??ah?, j??a, s??a, qir??a.

hamza is mostly missing on initial alif, though use increases throughout the MS.

It is written occasionally, on the line (rid??a); combined with a carrier, shay?an, kayfa ukh?i?u; changed to glide in intervocalic position in (muwaliffuh? mu?aliffuh?, inn? q?riyah? q?ri?ah?, war?yi a?diq?yih? a?diq??ih?, ?an?ya , tuw?t?hi , kh?yin in, dropped in postvocalic position (qir?tih? qir??atih?, ?al? shayin, shay, bi-?am?hu , rid?h?).

madda missing (e.g., ?khiratihi, lam aman) or replaced by hamza (wa-l-?kharu, ?khiratih?), but also correct (il? ?khirih?). madda and hamza subsequent (ka-l-m??i).

madda used as miniature alif on l?m (ul??ika).

d?l written for d?hl(allad? alladh?; akhadta akhadhta; y?? dotted below for ? and ? (alladh?, hatt?, jar?)).

?? written for ?? (?ahara).

But ? occasionally undotted (allad? alladh?).

The text block is not carefully observed. Chapter titles are in large red pen on separate line, in Im, Lo subtitle in black pen, in Bu bordered by paragraph signs (three red or black inverted apostrophes).

Chapter titles are repeated in small black pen on the margin (though some were cut in the binding process).

Text division: by paragraph symbols in the form of inverted red apostrophes, red dots, and intah?

signs; they cluster in certain parts of the MS, e.g., the end of the Kd chapter, pp. 242-50. Text highlighting is by red overstrike; the inquit is highlighted by retracing the l?m of q?la in red pen, or writing the entire word in red pen.

Sʔn/sʔd shift appears in the legend p. 62.

madda marks alif mamdʔda without hamza sign in ʔulamʔʔ, qirʔʔatihʔ, wa-l-mʔʔi or more rarely with hamza sign behind in ʔulamʔʔ, ʔukamʔʔ, qirʔʔati l-kutubi, ridʔʔahʔ, or combined with hamza sign on top in ʔafrʔʔ. madda marks also long ʔ in arʔdʔ, lahʔ, aʔʔfahʔ, and long ʔ with hamza, mamlʔʔatan burran (this is perhaps the point of transfer to use madda for long ʔ alone), and long ʔ in alladhʔ, and word-initial long ʔ in lam ʔman.

Dotted yʔʔ is used for ʔ in jarʔ, ʔasʔ and undotted both for ʔ, ʔalʔ and for ʔ and final yʔʔ (summiya).

Some final yʔʔ is written as alif, e.g., qʔsʔ, ramʔ.

H2 thinner line and and narrower spacing, becoming more narrow at the end of fol. 5v to arrive at connecting point in text.

The restoration is made from a different continuum, resulting in a number of duplicated units.

Characteristics: final alif with second stroke downwards crossing beneath baseline; final h??

occasionally as a hook, similar to small d?l in Mc 15 twice, Mc 32 twice; rare medial h?? as v-shape

?????? in Mc 64; madda marking alif mamd?da is often written suprasegmentally above the word

?????? for ?????? in Mc 2; in ???? for ???? in Mc 3; and ????? in Mc 32, etc. In Ag: between the two alifs of ?????.

Diacritics: often at distance from letter; rare Muhmal signs; small m?m beneath b?ma in Mc 20; small ? beneath ????? in Mc 71. The two dots of y??, q?f and sometimes on t?? are combined into a small arch; for y?? this is an u-shape.

Vocalization: mostly in redundant places such as fat?a on w?w, Shadda on sun letters and tanw?n alif.

Some kasra is reverse oblique; fat?a and ?amma written connected as ligature, ??????? in Mc 3;

?????? in Mc 11; ???? in Mc 44; ???? in Mc 46.1.

Missing beginning, text begins after a fragment (fol. 5) with fol. 6 containing a table of contents with synopses.

Fol. 11 is restored, 11r left blank, 11v written in different hand (H2), as are 27r-27v, 38r-38v partially, 39r-39v, and 115r-115v. All sheets are cut around the frame and glued onto new pages, some missed corners are restored by a further hand (H3).

Chapter titles marked by thick red pen, chapter division by new centered new line, chapters are ended by a dotted triangle.

Table of contents with synopses (6r-8r) has titles in thick beige pen with thin brown contour, synopses ending either with short centered line or dotted circle or triangle.

Text division: thick red pen, occasionally combined with small spaces, dotted circle, and red dot, marks subtales (mathal, min amth?li).

Text highlighting: thick red pen, occasionally combined with small spaces, dotted circle, or red dot, marks inquit (q?la, fa ?innah? yuq?lu, also with mashq, see script), sentence-initial words (thumma, fa-bayn?, wa-rubba, wa-l? yanbagh?), and lists of items (minh?); highlighting is most frequent in Im chapter; a dotted circle also serves as end-of-line filler.

Title page with attribution of KD to Buzurgmihr b. al-Bakhtik?n. Thin red double-frame around the text block within larger thin red single frame enclosing catchwords and marginalia.

Chapter titles in running text in thicker red pen and green overstrike.

Text division: frequent semantic dividers in form of inverted red apostrophes; sub-stories marked by the word mathal (if contained in text) in thicker colored pen and occasionally overstrike, combining green and red.

Text highlighting: marked are inquits, proper names of characters, the book title, key words (e.g., kit?b, muqaddimal, sabu? wa-tawr (sic)), numbers or items in lists (e.g. list of epistemic terms in As, fol. 7v, or parts of allegoresis in Bu, 36r), and sentence-initial words (qad yuq?lu, wa-qad q?la, yanbagh?, kam? anna); frequent semantic breaks with red inverted apostrophe.
